

You are viewing one of thousands of biographies – click below for more, including Search box and access to Plant associated organisations.

Plant Biographies

Bibliography

Casuarina

Casuarinaceae

Casuarina is named after the cassowary, a flightless bird associated particularly with New Guinea (now Papua New Guinea beside the Indonesian state of Irian Jaya – the latter re-christened Papua on 1st January 2000) whose feathers are said to bear some resemblance to the trees' weeping branchlets.