

You are viewing one of thousands of biographies – click below for more, including Search box and access to Plant associated organisations.

Plant Biographies

Bibliography

Nothoscordum borbonicum

[Synonyms : Allium fragrans, Allium odonum, Nothoscordum fragrans, Nothoscordum inodorum]

HONEYBELLS is a bulbous perennial. Native to South America, it has small fragrant white flowers.

It is also known as Aglio della Sicilia (Italian), Ail bâtard (French), Alho-sem-cheiro (Portuguese), False onion weed, Fragrant false garlic, and Strimlok (Swedish).

Borbonicum means ‘of or from the Island of Réunion in the Indian Ocean’ which once bore the House of Bourbon’s name, or may commemorate the French Bourbon kings (1589-1792). This perennial is cultivated as an ornamental plant.