

You are viewing one of thousands of biographies – click below for more, including Search box and access to Plant associated organisations.

Plant Biographies

Bibliography

Ozothamnus ledifolius

[Synonyms : Helichrysum ledifolium]

KEROSENE WEED is an evergreen shrub. Native to Tasmania it has pink buds opening to small white flowers.

It is also known as Kerosene bush, and Mountain spice.

The shrub is strongly aromatic and highly flammable.

Ledifolius is derived from the genus name Ledum (now part of the Rhododendron genus) and -folia (leaved) components meaning ‘with leaves similar to those of Labrador tea or marsh rosemary’.