

You are viewing one of thousands of biographies – click below for more, including Search box and access to Plant associated organisations.

Plant Biographies

Bibliography

Vernonia fasciculata

IRONWEED is a perennial. Native to western North America it has reddish-purple or purple flowers.

It is also known as Prairie ironweed.

Fasciculata is derived from Latin fasciculus (bundle, packet, fagot) meaning ‘clustered or growing/grouped together in bundles’.